

387

Oluce

Agnoli 387 replacement rod

Technical details

|                            |                                                                                            |
|----------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Pays de fabrication |  Italie |
| Fabricant           | Oluce                                                                                      |
| Créateur            | Tito Agnoli                                                                                |
| matériel            | métal                                                                                      |

Description

The Oluce Agnoli 387 replacement lamp rod is a spare part for the Agnoli 387. This is the lamp rod without base. It is made of matt nickel-plated metal. This replacement lamp rod is only suitable for the version from May 2018.